Department of Managerial Sciences
Robinson College of Business
Georgia State University
Atlanta, Georgia

The Robinson College of Business seeks applications and nominations for a non-tenure track position in the area of Human Resource Management/Organization Behavior. The successful candidate will begin employment in August, 2017. The position includes teaching at the undergraduate and/or graduate levels in the College's academic programs. The position is rank open but we expect to hire at the Clinical Assistant or Clinical Associate Professor level. Clinical faculty hold academic titles (i.e. Clinical Assistant Professor, Clinical Associate Professor, Clinical Professor) and have opportunities for promotion based upon demonstrated excellence in teaching and being active in scholarship that includes the scholarship of teaching and may include practitioner and/or disciplinary research. Clinical faculty participate in the same faculty governance and decision making activities as tenure track faculty, with the exception of those related to tenure.

Candidates for this position must have an earned doctorate in a relevant field from an AACSB accredited university and a demonstrated ability for teaching excellence within Human Resource Management/Organization Behavior, with the capability for publishing research in refereed journals (pedagogical, practitioner or disciplinary). Salary and other types of support are competitive with other research universities.

Georgia State University, a leading urban research university, and the Robinson College of Business are growing institutions that provide exceptional opportunities for their faculty members. Located in the heart of Atlanta, home to the headquarters of 16 Fortune 500 companies, numerous regional headquarters, and a large number of regional, national and global enterprises, the Robinson College of Business is one of the largest and most diverse business schools in the country with over 8,000 students, and has strong ties with the Atlanta business community, many of whom are alumni of the College. The Department of Managerial Sciences offers graduate and undergraduate programs that provide focused study in Human Resource Management, Operations and Logistics, and Business Analysis, as well as general management. Related to the HR area, we have established relationships with SHRM Atlanta, a very active student chapter of SHRM, and a Human Resources Executive RoundTable that provides high-quality programing aimed at addressing the concerns of corporate HR executives. Additional information about the Department and its programs, faculty and activities can be found at <http://mgmt.robinson.gsu.edu/>.

Those wishing to apply should register with <http://academicjobsonline.org/> (registration is free) and upload their letter of application, curriculum vita, evidence of teaching effectiveness and the contact information for three letters of reference. Applicants are required to submit their materials via the online system. Questions about the position should be sent to Dr. Kris Byron at kbyron@gsu.edu.

Review of applications will begin immediately and applicants will be reviewed until the position is filled. The position is contingent upon final budget approval by the University.

Georgia State University is an equal opportunity educational institution and an affirmative action employer.
