J. MACK ROBINSON COLLEGE OF BUSINESS
GEORGIA STATE UNIVERSITY

Candidates are sought for one or more non-tenure track faculty appointments in the Department of Finance to be effective Fall Semester 2012.

CLINICAL ASSISTANT OR ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR OF FINANCE (NON-TENURE TRACK) or LECTURER IN FINANCE (NON-TENURE TRACK)

Accomplished individuals are sought for one or more non-tenure track appointments at the rank of Clinical Assistant or Clinical Associate Professor to be effective Fall 2012. Appointment is renewable annually, but is not limited in duration. An earned doctorate in finance or a related discipline is required from an AACSB-accredited institution (or similarly accredited international university). Candidates must possess demonstrated capability in high-level classroom instruction. Also desirable is successful experience in the professional community including participation in executive education forums. Appointees will be expected to engage in the practicum of finance including the supervision of field study courses and case writing, and to conduct both discipline-based research as well as research in the area of the scholarship of teaching and learning. While an appointee's primary commitment will be to the classroom, access to a first-class research environment and its resources is available. Normal faculty service assignments are expected.

LECTURER (NON-TENURE TRACK)

Accomplished individual is sought for a non-tenure track lecturer position to be effective Fall 2012. Candidates must have a master's or doctorate degree from an AACSB-accredited institution (or similarly accredited international university) and demonstrated high-level classroom performance in finance at an AACSB-accredited institution. Position duties include undergraduate and/or graduate teaching, student advisement and other faculty service assignments, and community and business outreach.

Please direct all applications including a letter of interest, resume, teaching evaluations, papers, and three letters of recommendations to Professors Jayant Kale and Omesh Kini: Co-Chairs of the Recruiting Committee, at FinanceRecruiting@gsu.edu.
